small. Mrs. Fickle, our sponsor, worked very hard to help us with our year's work. Our officers were Phil Fletcher, president; Shirley Roller, vice-president; Patricia Cook, secretary; Pat Henderson, treasurer; Beverly Curry, Student Council member; Etta Swank, news reporter. We planned our class trip to include New York City, Niagara Falls, and many other places of interest.

Although we had looked forward to our graduation day since we first entered the school, we found ourselves reluctant to leave now that the time had finally arrived. We have many pleasant memories to take with us from our years at Lucerne School.

Class Will

We, the senior class of 1955 of Lucerne High School, leave our excuses to the juniors, who sometimes seem to need them.

We, the senior girls, leave our old-maidish ways to the freshman girls, so they can get their beauty sleep.

I, the senior boy, leave my ten o'clock deadline to next year's basketball team.

I, Beverly Curry, do bequeath my ability to behave in class and in the assembly to Robert Catron, who doesn't seem to be able to and also my pencil stubs and erasers to my brother, Don, who will need them for his remaining two years.

I, Pat Henderson, do bequeath my office of class treasurer to Normalou Unger, so that she may be rich during her remaining year of school.

I, Patricia Cook, do leave the color of my hair to Norman Warner, so that he, too, may be called a "dishwater blond."

I, Shirley Roller, do leave my height to Billy Fairchild, so he can be an outstanding basketball player, and my role as an old maid to Janice Bridge, who has more men than she knows what to do with.

I, Etta Swank, leave my ability to behave in the assembly to Tommy Hilkert, so he won't have to sit by Mr. Rowe, and I also leave my meekness to Betty Purdue.

I, Philip Fletcher, will my outstanding and incomparable grades to Darryl Myers, so that he will become one of Lucerne High School's highest honor students, and also my unpracticed modesty, so that it won't all go to his head.

We, the senior class, leave-----period.

Class History

On a bright fall day of 1943 we ten shy little darlings entered the first grade of Lucerne School: Barbara Brown, Charles Brown, Dorothy Button, Allen Hanna, Shirley Roller, Richard Sisson, Richard Stark, Tom Shanks, Eileen Waddups, and Mary Lou Watts. At first it was hard for us to sit quietly in those hard seats, but Mrs. Powlen was a very good teacher and soon made us feel at home. By the time we entered the second grade, we had become acclimated to school routine. We lost Barbara and Charles Brown, Richard Sisson, and Eileen Waddups, but we gained Donna Hickey and Etta Swank.

Our next big change came when we entered the third grade. Allen Hanna, Robert Lower, Barbara Minniear, Shirley Roller, Tommy Shanks, Richard Stark, Etta Swank, Richard Pinder, Wayne Overmyer, Robert Wilson, and Mary Lou Watts enjoyed the new surroundings in Mrs. Winn's room. During this year Barbara Minniear was advanced to the next grade. Our fourth grade class was increased by three new students: Patricia Cook, Shirley Hurlburt, and Sandra Thompson.

Our fifth year we entered a new room again with Mrs. Shafer as our teacher. Here we gained Clarence Osborne, David and Norval Partlow, and James Sutton, but we lost Shirley Hurlburt. Mr. Jones, known as "Casey," became our sixth grade teacher. We added Patricia Henderson to our class roll and lost David and Norval Partlow, James Sutton, and Mary Lou Watts.

At last the long-awaited day came when we were permitted to move our belongings upstairs! We had felt pretty much at home on the first floor, but now we had to become adjusted to many different teachers and classrooms. For a while we were quite confused! Mr. Barton, our class sponsor, helped us learn what to do. This was the year that Philip Fletcher joined our class, and Sandra Thompson and Richard Pinder left us.

When we entered the eighth grade there were only six in our class. Mrs. Barton was selected to be our sponsor.

Finally we became freshmen. We felt pretty big to be entering high school. The members of our class this year were Gail Brown, Patricia Cook, Kay Dunn, Beverly Curry, Philip Fletcher, Pat Henderson, Etta Swank and Shirley Roller. Mrs. Cook was our sponsor.

Now the years were going by fast--we were sophomores! Our line-up was about the same except that we lost Kay Dunn and Gail Brown. Mr. Deeb was our sponsor.

We were climbing rapidly. We became juniors. Mr. Connelly, as our sponsor, worked hard to help us raise money for our senior trip. Our class membership remained the same.

We had made it at last! We were dignified seniors! This meant a year of hard work as well as many activities. We sold popcorn, sold Christmas cards, published a yearbook, and tried in many ways to complete our Lucerne School years successfully. Our class, consisting of Patricia Cook, Pat Henderson, Beverly Curry, Etta Swank, Shirley Roller, and our one lonesome boy, Philip Fletcher, was very

Prophecy

One bright, warm spring day, a typical June day in 1975, I flew out from my private airport in my new sport jet. When I had been out for about an hour one of my motors began missing. Luckily for me there was an airfield just below. I landed within a matter of seconds and told the attendants to check and to make the needed repairs. I stopped nearby at the office of a famous airline, and found a tall, darkhaired accountant working on his books. He looked up, and I immediately recognized him as Phil Fletcher--the lone senior boy of 1955.

We exchanged greetings and then had a good chat. He told me he had become an accountant, as he was always a lover of bookkeeping. While we were talking, he was called to an important board meeting on finance. I crossed the street to an ultra-modern restaurant recommended by Duncan Hines. The owner, who was greeting the guests at the door, was none other than Etta Swank. Not having eaten yet, she invited me to a special dinner on the house. Naturally I accepted. We talked awhile about herself and the other seniors. She told me that Pat Henderson had not returned from the senior trip, that a model agency had spotted her, and that she was still modeling in New York. Etta also informed me that Bill goes out there about every month to make sure she doesn't get lonely.

After dinner I decided to attend a show or some other kind of entertainment. As I was going downtown, I saw in big headlights, "Premier of Shirley Roller's Newest Opera." I immediately made up my mind to attend the opera and bought a good seat, so I could see if it was the Shirley Roller of Lucerne. Sure enough it was she, singing much higher notes than those sung during her high school days. After the show was over I went backstage to congratulate her and her cast on their fine performance. She invited me to a party in honor of her new opera. While there I asked if she knew what had happened to the remaining '55 seniors. She told me that about six months after graduation Patricia Cook had joined the WAVES, and that she was surrounded all the time by those handsome sailors. M-mmmmm those handsome tars! As luck would have it, she met the right man and at present she is living on Mt. Washington where she received her first proposal. I told Shirley about my meeting Phil and Etta and the news about Pat.

Then I went back to the hotel for another night's sleep. On the next day I went to the airport reminiscing on what I had heard and seen yesterday and wondering about the one missing--Beverly Curry.

When I arrived at the flight entrance, I saw a hostess coming down the stairs of a big rocket. The face seemed familiar. Sure enough it was Beverly. As I walked up to her, she immediately recognized me. She had become an airline hostess about a year and a half after graduation. She was quite thrilled for she was leaving for the moon in fifteen minutes. We hurriedly recalled some of the antics of our high school days, and then her time was up. I then went back out to my jet which was ready to go.

As I look back and tip a farewell, I see the seniors of nineteen hundred and fifty-five not as students, but as men and women--each filling his place in life.

Senior Class

Patricia Cook--Her beauty is topped only by her brains. She acted in all our plays, served as cheerleader one year, sang in the chorus four years, and belonged to the Latin Club one year. She was president of the class one year, vice-president one year and Student Council member one year. She was also on the Spotlight and Lion staffs.

Beverly Curry--The genius of the senior class has certainly shown us that brains do help. She was treasurer one year and baton twirler one year. She represented our class in the Student Council three years. Beverly joined the chorus and the Latin Club one year. She received second place in the District Algebra Contest which enabled her to go to the State Algebra Contest. In her sophomore year she received second place in the District Latin Contest enabling her to compete in the State Latin Contest. She was junior editor of the "Spotlight" in '54 and was on the Lion and Spotlight staffs. Beverly has also acted in our plays.

Philip Fletcher--The lonely boy in the class was very busy, too. He played basketball four years, softball four years, and was on the track team one year. He served on the Student Council one year and on the Spotlight and on the Lion staffs. He was president of the class three years and vice-president one year. Wait, there's more to come! He also sang in the chorus three and one half years, was a member of the boys' quartet two years, acted in several plays, and was in the 4-H Club three years.

CLASS MOTTO: He Conquers Who Conquers Himself

Patricia "Pat" Henderson--Always bubbling with energy and enthusiasm is she. She has acted in our plays, has been cheerleader two years, treasurer of the class three years, and on the Student Council one year. She sang in the chorus three years and was on the Spotlight and Lion staffs. Besides that she belonged to the 4-H Club seven years and the Latin Club one year. She went to the District Latin Contest.

Shirley Roller--Our tall Shirley was always ready to give her helping hand in anything the class did. She was editor of the Lion, served on the Spotlight staff, acted in several plays, belonged to the 4-H Club six years, and the Latin Club one year. She also was secretary of the class two years, vice-president one year, and Student Council member one year.

Etta Swank--This cute little gal acted in class plays, helped on the Spotlight and Lion staffs, sang in the chorus four years, and belonged to the 4-H Club seven years. She was news-reporter of the class for four years.

MA'S NEW HUSBAND

Presented by the Junior and Senior Classes of Lucerne High School

When Hercules comes to meet the family of the widowed Mrs. Lottie Dinsmore, whom he hopes to marry, he is met by a Spanish lover she has deserted, two of his old flames, and two abandoned sweethearts of Senor Alvarez, aptly played by the boy friends of Mrs. Dinsmore's two daughters. The daughters have produced these characters in the hopes of preventing the marriage of their mother. In the resulting turmoil many amusing things happen, and the daughters soon wish they had never started such a plot. All is eventually straightened out and explained, and the daughters are glad to accept the new husband.

THE LAUGHING GHOST

(Presented by the Senior Class at the Hallowe'en Festival)

Pamela Norton arrives unexpectedly at the old Sturges Mansion at three o'clock in the morning to marry the heir of the family, Joe Sturges. His sisters tell her of the ghost, Alberta, who died in the house and who sends her ghostly laughter echoing through the house whenever a tragedy is about to occur. The ghostly laughter, a threatening note, an attempt to poison her, and the sisters' attempt to trap the ghost by using the colored maid as a decoy all add to the worries of Pamela and the entertainment of the audience. The discovery that Edward Louis, the hen-pecked husband of the Sturges children's aunt, is the villain brings the story to an exciting and amusing climax.
